Issue no. 4 | September 2022

Dear reader, we are happy to share with you the 4th CrADLE newsletter. You can read about the progression of our project below.

Mission accomplished!

CrADLE project (project no. 2020-1-HR01-KA204-077872) aims to develop and expand the competencies of teachers who educate seniors in specialised creative expression workshops, with an emphasis on using innovative solutions as tools and teaching methods.

As the project is coming to its end, we can proudly say both intellectual outputs were completed successfully. Within IO1 we have developed 11 curricula for different creative workshops, and within IO2, we've developed Train The Trainer Manual, a tool that explains the methodology of working with seniors, and an accompanying program for educators.

What was done...

During the development of IO2, pilot workshops were carried out in each partner's country. In these workshops we educated our teachers / educators / trainers on specificities of working with seniors relying on the manual we had previously developed. Once finalized, all partners translated the manual, which is now available on the respective websites of the consortium organizations.

Final Meeting

The final transnational project meeting took place in Rijeka, Croatia, at the facilities of the coordinating organization - Narodno učilište. During the meeting, experiences and ideas were shared, the project was evaluated and future projects were discussed.

Multiplier Events

The Multiplier Events will be carried out during the month of September, where the project results will be disseminated, enhancing the project's sustainability.
